

Resource Summary December 20 – 31, 2020

Did you miss our posts on social media this week? Don't worry, here is a summary of all the parent and caregiver resources our EarlyON Educators would like to share with you!

This holiday season consider using technology to connect with loved ones and celebrate this special season virtually. Our EarlyON Educators invite you to visit this site to learn several wonderful ways to share holiday traditions with your little ones.

<https://www.zerotothree.org/resources/3752-10-ways-to-share-virtual-traditions-with-babies-and-toddlers>

Check out this article provided by our EarlyON Educators, with reminders of the importance of slowing down, connecting and spending quality time with your little ones.

<https://www.zerotothree.org/resources/3080-your-presence-is-the-present>

Looking for a simple preschool craft to help celebrate Kwanzaa this year? Check out this link, suggested by our EarlyON Educators, with steps to create a traditional kinara using simple materials found at home. <http://craftclub.com/craft/kwanzaa-kinara>

EarlyON Parents: Winter can be very isolating for parents with newborns or young babies. Cold temperature and icy weather make you feel like you need to hibernate but that may not be the case. Here are some tips to safely enjoying outdoor time with your baby even when it's cold. <https://activeforlife.com/dress-baby-for-winter/>

With New Year's Eve approaching, our EarlyON Educators would like to share this link where you will learn how to create noisemakers with your young children. Try it at home and make some noise to ring in 2021! <https://www.himama.com/daycare-activities/new-years-eve-noise-makers>

Snow is an amazing play and learning material. Our EarlyON Educators suggest you check out this link for some creative activities and experiments that you can enjoy with your children using snow indoors. <https://www.cbc.ca/parents/play/view/7-fun-ways-to-play-with-snow-indoors>

Happy New Year from the EarlyON team!